

Perspectives on HumanLight

“HumanLight reflects that we are not only conscious, but caring. We can and must appreciate the value of each individual. We can and must live up to our ideals. We can and must understand the power we each have to make a difference in other peoples’ lives and see the importance of taking care of us all.

Perhaps the full meaning of HumanLight is this. It is in our power to use our best hope, the “light” of reason and science, to provide for the future of humankind.

- Barry Klassel

Actor, Director, Writer

Excerpt from published newspaper article
HumanLight 2002, New Jersey

“This holiday celebration we have called Human Light because, just as we are conscious of how the sun brings light and life to the physical universe, we realize that human beings can bring light and life to one another. Many of us call ourselves Humanists. This means that we are dedicated to bringing light and life to our fellow human beings.

The light we bring, we usually call reason, which means the clearest and best thinking we have to guide our ways through life’s challenges. The life we bring is the love, the hope and the compassion we have for our fellow human beings, our neighborhood, our environment and our world.

The life we bring is also a joy in living. We know that life brings sorrows, but it also brings its moment of happiness, enriching relationships, fun and laughter.

Humanlight means all these things.”

- Dally Messenger

National President,
Australian Federation of Civil Celebrants
Emcee of HumanLight 2002, New Jersey
Excerpt from welcome remarks

December 23rd is

HumanLight®

Celebrating humanity, reason &
hope.

HumanLight®

For more information visit:

www.humanlight.org